

Intro to FASD E-learning

Coming in November
In advance of the January 2021
NICE Quality Standard on FASD

NATIONAL ORGANISATION
— FOR —
FASD

FASD is a lifelong condition caused by prenatal exposure to alcohol. It is the commonest form of preventable impairments and more common than Autism. This introductory course has been created by FASD specialists and reviewed by experts.

This course is essential for professionals working in the Health, Social and Education sectors (whether public, private or voluntary) in order to recognise the condition,

- Includes information relevant to the upcoming NICE Quality Standard
- Adheres to the UK FASD Preferred Language Guide and Best Practice in FASD Training Guide
- Research-based yet user-friendly and enjoyable
- CPD Accredited
- Expert reviewed
- A comprehensive introductory course that is reviewed and updated
- A robust learning platform that supports your learners needs
- Includes interactive elements and videos
- Features latest research and also lived experience

This online course is a cost-effective way to introduce your workforce in this essential subject with discounts available for bulk licences.

For more information
Email: training@nationalfasd.org.uk

“

Diagnosis at the earliest possible stage allows for early intervention and treatment programmes and a better overall outcome for an individual with FASD. Better understanding of the condition can help parents and professionals cope more appropriately with the child's difficulties. This extends beyond healthcare, for example through development of targeted educational and social support programmes. NICE Briefing Paper, 2019

This course covers:

- What FASD is
- Pregnancy and alcohol
- Diagnosis and assessment
- After diagnosis—strategies for success
- Rights of people with FASD in England

Despite being a prevalent condition, FASD is largely under-recognised and under-diagnosed. This has not been a part of professionals initial training. The NICE Quality Standard on FASD draft includes “evidence of local arrangements to increase awareness of FASD among healthcare professionals” as a quality measure.

Completion of this course will allow practitioners to feel confident in their basic FASD knowledge. Each learner is assessed. Certificates available.

Completing this course can allow practitioners to recognise the condition more quickly, which can save time and money with wrong referrals and allows the practitioners to implement strategies that are more effective.

Rates:

Number of Licences: 0 – 99 - £95.00; 100 – 249 - £85.00; 250 + - £80.00

For more information
Email: training@nationalfasd.org.uk